ascribed the present condition of the easury to the Democratic party. "I do said Senator Sherman, "that the incipal cause not the only cause by any eans, but the principal cause of our resent financial condition is because the Democratic party came into power. It is a great party; its history I can be proud as well as any one on the other side, out it came into power with a declaration that the whole policy of the government, for more than thirty years, should be abandoned and a policy towards free trade Continuing, Senator Sherman naintained that the revenues under the lickinley law had been more than sufficient to maintain the government for, during the Harrison administration, the public debt had been reduced to the extent of $259,000,000. But since the Democratic party came into power, under the distress which its success has engendered, the loss of revenues in the current fiscal year from July 1 to Jan. 1 had been between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000. Senator Sherman, in the main, reiterated the position maintained by him on yesterday,

VOORHEES EULOGIZES CARLISLE. The Ohioan was followed by Senator Voorhees, who caused to be read the statement of Secretary Carlisle as to his interpretation of the law on the bond question. He said there was no question of the Secretary's power to issue bonds, and any question as to the expenditure of the money was a subject for later considera-

"Is there any proposition now to issue bonds for redeeming greenbacks?" inquired Senator Daniel. "The proposition to issue bonds," replied Senator Voorhees, "contains nothing but the authority in the law, neither affirming nor denying what use is to be made of the money, and I take it that we cannot inquire into that until after the money has been secured by the issue of the bonds. Whenever the Secretary of the Treasury is going to use this money after he gets it contrary to the view of the Senator from Virginia, it will be time for him to go into court and restrain him. In the first place, I hold with the Secretary of the Treasury and contrary to the Senator from Ohio (Sherman), that the Secretary can use this money in any way that seems to him properly conducive to the general purpose con-templated by the act of 1875-to redeem the reenbacks and carry on the government. believe that John G. Carlisle is right in believing that he can take care of this government by these funds or any other that come into his hands. John G. Carlisle is fit to sit where John Marshall sat. He is a lawyer among lawyers, at whose feet Senators here who are criticising him can sit and take instruction, and learning, and wisdom by the day and by the hour. At the proper time and in the proper way we will take care of the credit of the govern-

Referring to the tariff question, Senator Voorhees said: "I will say now that I am for a tariff bill to give revenue. lieve that when a proclamation is made that we are for a tariff for revenue only it means only the revenue to carry on the business of the government." Senator Hawley then proceeded to maintain that the success of the Democratic party was responsible for the falling off of revenues and the depletion of the treasury. At the conclusion of Senator Hawley' speech the bond resolution went over, and, at 5:10, the Senate, on motion of Mr. Gorman, went into executive session, and, at 3:25, adjourned.

OFFERS FOR BONDS.

Bids Received by Carlisle for More

Than the Amount on Sale. WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.-The success of Secretary Carlisle's proposed bond loan was fully assured when the department closed this afternoon, as the offers to take bonds received to-day, added to those heretofore received, make an aggregate of between $65,000,000 and $79,000,000. Those received from New York to-day amounted to $46,000,000, and, in addition, offers were received from Boston and Chicago. Offers will continue to be received up to noon to-morrow. The present expectation is that the Sceretary will make public the amounts of the offers and the premiums some time to-morrow afternoon.

A dispatch from New York says: "At 5 o'clock President Stewart, of the United States Trust Company, wired Secretary Carlisle that the total subscription for bonds was something in excess of $45,000,-000. This included the bids of three Boston houses-Kidder, Peabody & Co., E. R. Morse & Co., and R. L. Day & Co.-the first-named firm taking $2,500,000, the secand $500,000, and an even million for the

It is said here that New York bankers were more interested in securing Secretary Carlisle's opinion concerning the probable effect of the proposed tariff legislation than concerning the adverse report of the House judiciary committee on the bond issue. The bankers suggested that if the Wilson bill should become law it would so reduce the revenues of the government that the treasury deficit will not end with the present year, but that it is likely to continue one year after another, and they are said to have questioned Mr. Carlisle at some length on the probability of the passage of the bill. The idea which appeared to control the New York financiers was that if the revenues were to be so cut as to render probable the continued issue of bonds so many of them would ultimately be thrown on the market as to depreciate their value and render it unwise to pay the high premium on the 5-10 bonds by the terms of Mr. Cardisle's proposition.

Rumor Concerning Gladstone Denied by Sir Algernon West.

No Truth in a Report that the Premier Intended to Retire from Public Life -General Foreign News.

LONDON, Jan. 31 .- The Pall Mall Gazette, to-day, stated that Mr. Gladstone had decided to resign office almost immediately. This decision was said to be due to a sense of his advanced age, and the great strain the late arduous session imposed upon him. Finally, it was said. Mr. Gladstone was deeply disappointed at the rejection of the home-rule bill. The Pall Mall Gazette added that it was understood that domestic pressure had considerably influenced Mr. Gladstone in his decision. The anouncement caused surprise, and when investigated proved to be ground-

Sir Algernon West, who is with Mr. Gladstone at Biarritz, has been authorized to declare that the statement is untrue. He is further authorized to say that it is true that many months ago Mr. Gladstone's age and the condition of his sight and hearing made it, in his judgment, desirable for him to be relieved from public care. His tenure of office, which has been liable to interruption from these causes, remains exactly as before. Mr. Gladstone has not said or done anything to restrain his freedom or that of his colleagues regarding his future course.

The Kaiser's Birthday Rescript.

BERLIN, Jan. 31.-The Emperor's rescript, addressed on the occasion of birthday, to Chancellor Von Caprivi, is published to-day by the Reichsanzeiger, the semi-official newspaper. The rescript says that upon entering a fresh year of fife and the twenty-fifth of his connection with the army, the Emperor has been gladdened by many proofs of true loyalty offered by the German nation which vied with the German Princess in doing honor and in giving pleasure to the Emperor during this double festival. Continuing, the Emperor remarks that it has afforded him heartfelt satisfaction to learn from the written and telegraphic congratulation how greatly the visit of the statesman who had deserved so well of his sovereign and of the empire had enhanced the glad sympathy tendered to the Emperor by all patriotic hearts, and on the occasion of this festival the Emperor tenders thanks to all for their kindly wishes and expresses confidence in the peaceful and prosperous development of the beloved fatherland.

It shows that the bill will pass by 34 Cajority at the lowest possible estimate, and allowing the opposition the benefit of every doubt. The doubts have so little prospects of realization in several cases that the majority is reckoned at 40, and there are strong prospects entertained that it will reach 50. HOW INDIANIANS VOTED. Six Against Extending the Bonded Period for Whisky.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.-In the House, to-day, Representatives Bynum, Holman, Cooper and McNagny, Democrats, and Johnson and Waugh, Republicans, voted against the proposition of the ways and means committee to extend the bonded period for whisky from three to eight years, and were, therefore, with the majority. Some surprise was expressed at the vote of Mr. Holman, who has large whisky interests in his district. Mr. Bynum, although a member of the ways and means committee, which recommended the extension of the bonded period, has all along opposed any extension whatever as being wholly in the interest of the whisky owner and against the interests of the government. The presence of ex-Congressman John E. Lamb in Washington did not suffice to preserve the interests of the distillers, as they have lost their most desirable proposition, and, as the bill stands, will have to pay $1 a gallon tax, even upon the goods in bond, without any compensatory relief in any other direction. The whisky men are here in force, and hope to secure the extension of the bonded period in the Senate and an increase of the tax above that fixed by the House, which will make them all rich. It is believed that there will not be more than a dozen Democratic votes cast in the House to-morrow against the Wilson tariff bill after the income taxes have been in-corporated in it. Like most of the Democratic bluster, the cry against the vicious and malicious free-trade features of the bill and the income taxes, it will have no effect. The Democrats have at last fallen down and will support the bill rather than bolt the caucus, even though home interests are destroyed, and in face of overwhelming protests from their constituents. Mr. Bryan, who is given credit for having unearthed the income tax scheme and secured its insertion in the Wilson bill, is about the happiest man in Washington tonight. He says income taxes are certain to be in the Wilson bill when that measure becomes law. The immense reversal of Democratic majorities in New York yesterday, when a Republican was elected to succeed Fellows, and there was a change several thousand Democratic votes in another district, is acknowledged by New York Democrats to have been the direct result of dissatisfaction with the Wilson tariff bill. It has been many years since the dication now that any sort of political re-buke will change the determination to pass the Wilson bill. POLITICAL SUICIDE.

Democrats Are Digging Their Graves in Passing the Tariff Bill. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.-According to the unqualified statements of Democrats in the House during the long and serious tariff debate, a number of Democratic States will, next Nevember, elect practically solid Republican delegations to Congress. Texas, the banner stronghold of Democracy, has announced, through almost every member of her delegation in the House, that if wool is placed on the free list and thrown into free competition with Australia and South and Central America, and blankets and the ordinary woolen manufactures are afforded a protective duty the State will become Republican, so far as congressional representation is concerned. Wool is certain to go upon the free list. There will be no restrictions about the freest competition in the wool trade, and the herders of flocks in all parts of the world may send all grades of wool into the United States without let or hindrance. This, according to statements made by Texas Democrats in the House, will force the herders of the Lone Star State to drive their flocks to the slaughter pen and go out of the business of sheep raising.

Nearly every Democratic member of the delegations from Alabama, West Virginia and Pennsylvania have warned their colleagues against placing coal and iron on the free list. More solemn and serious warnings against the political effect of this action could not have been made; it is to return, in place of Democratic Congressmen, men who believe in the Republican principle of meeting the expenses of the government by customs duties, which are to be levied so as to afford protection to American interests, Coal and iron will be free in the new tariff law. Without exception the Democratic members from New Jersey, Massachusetts and Connecticut have proclaimed that the inroads made by the Wilson bill on the leading industries of their States will prove disastrous to the Democratic party They have added that if on the top of these destructive blows to manufacturers is placed the income tax scheme there will be no hope for their party when it come to electing Congress] men. The malicious and vicious stabs at manufacturers and laboringmen will not be altered in the Wilson bill, and the inme taxes are to remain in when it goes upon the statute books. Democratic Representatives from northern New York, Michigan and Wisconsin have inveighed against the features of the Wilson bill which will throw their farmers life out of the farmer's interests without giving him an adequate equivalent in any other direction. The farmers are to be given no relief before this vicious measure becomes law. Special champions of labor in the Democratic ranks of the House have been in a state of cold perspiration for many days. They announce that any man with half sense knows that when factories and mills start up under the wason law, labor will be employed at from 25 to 50 per cent, reduction from the wages paid under the operation of the McKinley law. There is not a Democrat in either branch of Congress who will contend for a moment that wages will be rewarded in anything like the proportion paid during the past few years and up to the time when it became known that the Democrats were going to adopt free trade. According to open announcements in the debate and private expressions of opinions from Democrats the majority which the Republicans will have

Judge Taft Decides Against the Detroit Street-Railway Company.

DETROIT, Jan. 31.-The city has won a substantial victory in the suit against the Detroit Street-railway Company, involving the validity of the company's franchises. Some months ago a decision was rendered by Judge Taft, in the United States Circuit Court, holding that the company's right to the use of most of the principal streets had expired. Argument was subsequently heard as to whether the city was not estopped from proceeding against the new company, it having recognized the validity of an amended franchise giving the company renewed life until 1909. Judge Taft decides in effect that the Board of Aldermen, in 1879, had no power to extend the franchises of the railroad beyond the original thirty years granted by the charter of 1862. This includes all the lines of the Citizens' Street-railway Company, except the Cass avenue and Baker street lines, which are valid until 1907. The company held that the fact of its having complied with the ordinance of 1879, which increased its burdens and the city's revenue, practically gave them a new franchise. The court disagreed with the railway company and if the apper court sustains to-day's decision, the company will be obliged either to take up its tracks, sell them to the city or get new franchises. Mayor Pingree strongly favors municipal ownership of roadbeds at least. The decision gives the company three months in which to remove its tracks unless an appeal is taken to the Court of Appeals which sits in May next.

Operations of an Investment Company-Arrest of Its President on Charge of False Representations.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.-Humphrey B. Chamberlin, president of the Chamberlin Investment Company, of Denver, Col., which failed last July, has been arrested and held in $5,000 bail on an order of Justice Lawrence, of the Supreme Court, in an action brought by Joseph E. Paisley, of the shoe firm of J. Paisley & Sons, of Sixth avenue, to recover $5,000 for alleged false representations. Paisley was one of the many church people who claim to have been nipped by Chamberlin's representations. He says that Chamberlin said that the Fort Worth Park Place Land Company, of which the Chamberlin Investment Company had a large holding of stock, had about 490 acres near Fort Worth, Tex. Chamberlin let him have one hundred shares of the Fort Worth Park Place Land Company at $50 each, par value, $100. He told him he would get his morley back in three years and still have his investment. Paisley says he went down to Texas and found the company never owned the tract of land represented. He says he got no dividend and has been unable to get any of his $5,000. Chamberlin gave bail and was released. H. B . Chamberlin, president of the Chamberlin Investment Company, is one of the most prominent figures interested in land and real estate in the West. After a comparatively few years of rapid success in Denver at a time when values were rising in that city at an almost unprecedented rate, he was elected president of the Chamber of Commerce of that city, and has recently spent most of his time in Europe and the East of this country, enlisting capital for the numerous heavy projects in which his company was involved. Many of these proved disastrous. The property at Fort Worth, in which the company was principally interested, comprises a large tract of land four miles from the city, reached by an electric line kept up by the company, at the terminus of which was the famous Arlington Inn, a political hotel, built as a resort and to establish the locality as a fashionable neighborhood. The hotel was run for some time at a loss, and finally closed. The boom which struck Fort Worth was short lived, and the company found themselves in the possession of a white elephant of the most burdensome character. Other properties in the Southwest, although not of such an ambitious character, depreciated to such an extent that the small companies which the Chamberlin company had created and was holding up, coupled with the fall of values in Denver, which culminated last fall when the price of silver went down with a run. finally swamped the larger concern. In Denver for the past few years the business has been personally supervised by W. A. Chamberlin, a younger brother of the partner, against whom proceedings have been commenced. A great deal of money was cleared by dealings in inside town property and Capitol Hill investments, lots in the latter district jumping from $300 to $3,000 in the course of a few years, this upper portion of the town being now entirely occupied with the mansions of the wealthy mining operators of the State and successful citizens of the city. More than one extensive speculation in outside property followed these successes. and these not only proved failures, but the burial ground of capital mostly subscribed by smaller investors, who had been induced to place their money with the company on the reputation it had won in its earlier enterprises.

A vast amount of English capital was taken care of by the company, a large proportion of its clients being individuals connected with the Methodist Episcopal Church, of which the Chamberlains are prominent members. H. B. Chamberlin has also been intimately associated with the Young Men's Christian Association, and has lectured in Exeter Hall, London, the headquarters of the society, during his trips across the ocean. The arrest will naturally cause a great sensation.

SATOLLI'S SUCCESSOR

It Is Now Said Mgr. O'Connell Will Be Made Papal Ablegate.

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 31.-The Journal, which has several times printed pieces of Catholic news before they had become known in the church, to-day prints an article asserting that Mgr. O'Connell, of the American College at Rome, and not Archbishop Ireland, is to become papal ablegate in America on the approaching elevation of Satolli to the cardinalte. The Journal says that letters of a personal nature were received to-day from within the American College at Rome, stating that Satolli is to be given the red hat at the March consistory, but that he is to remain in this country for a time to settle up several important matters now in his hands before turning the legacy over to O'Connell. The new legate is a liberal of the Ireland school, and his appointment will be entirely satisfactory to the St Paul archbishop as well as to Cardinal Gibbons, whose protege he is.

Satolli a "Cardinal in Petto,"

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 31.—The recurrence of the gossip regarding the return of Mgr. Satolli to Rome and the appointment of a successor has brought out, through a recent visitor to the ablegate's home in Washington, the fact that the Pontiff's representative will remain in America only as long as the Pope feels warranted by his own (the Pope's) tenure of life. From the visitor mentioned it is learned that the ablegate is a "cardinal in petto," that is in the breast of the Pope. It is the rule of the Pope to elect a man for the honor of the red hat and to detail to the cardinals the candidate's accomplishments and his claims to the office, but to postpone the announcement of the name. The Pope's account of the candidate's fitness for the office never leaves any mistake as to his identity. Thus it is that Satolli is known to be a cardinal "in petto." In addition to this, Rev. Father D. S. Phelan, editor of the Western Watchman, who has recently been in Washington at the ablegate's home, corroborates these statements.

Denial from the Ablegate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 .- The report that Archbishop Ireland is to succeed Mgr Satolli as the Pope's ablegate in this country, and that Mgr. Satolli is to be recalled was officially denied at the residence of the ablegate last evening.

REBELS WARNED AGAIN.

A Saucy Brazilian Angers the Commader of a German War Ship.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.-The Herald's special dispatch from Rio Janeiro, Jan., 31, says: A launch loaded with coal and flying the German flag was fired on by the Guanabara yesterday in the harbor. Capt. Hofmeyer, of the German man-of-war Arcoma, at once went aboard the rebel ship and told her comander that he was now receiving his last warning, and that if he fired again upon anything flying the German flag the German war ship would sink his vessel. The rebel commander replied that he could only be sunk once, and that he would fight the thing out.

Captain Hofmeyer then cabled to Berlin stating that he would co-operate with the American admiral in defending commerce from rebel molestation. It is expected that the English naval commander here wil soon receive instructions to the same effect After a futile effort by the insurgents to force a landing at Armaco to-day their ships resumed their old anchorages.

LONDON, Feb. 1.-The mail matter carried by the White Star steamer Majestic arrived in London at midnight last night, and will be delivered at 8 o'clock this morning. The steamer New York arrived at Southampton at twenty minutes past o'clock this morning, and her mails are expected in London at 6 o'clock. Like those carried by the Majestic, they will be de-livered at 8 o'clock. Such matter carried for the provinces by the New York will be delivered somewhat later. These vessels left New York at the same time, and have aced across the Atlantic for the purpose of ascertaining by which route United States mail will first reach London The steamer New York docked at Southampton at 3:30 o'clock this morning and her mails left for London at 4 o'clock. She reports having had a stormy passage.

RELIGION AND SCHOOL BOARDS. Eleven Out of Thirteen of One Faith in New York City.

Joe Howard, in New York Recorder. An esteemed correspondent objects to a paragraph in my column in which I protest against religious tests being applied t members of the Board of Education. I mentioned the name of no sect, but told the simple truth-that in a majority of thirteen eleven members are of one religious creed. Now, for the purpose of my argument, it makes no difference whether hose eleven are all Baptists, Lutherans, Catholics, Episcopalians, Swedenborgians or Congregationalists—the principle applies to all; and as it would be an obvious absurdity if care were taken to secure eleven Baptists out of thirteen members, so would be a scandal, because it creates adverse criticism, if all the eleven were Methodists t so chances that they are not Baptists; they are not Methodists; but the force of the argument remains, as my critical friend would readily discover if his own toes were not trod upon.

This is and should be a free country. Is t free? And if it is, is it free to all sects, to all creeds, to all beliefs, as free to one as to the other? If it be so, if in our boards of education throughout the land no reigious test, no sectarian standard be applied we are indeed free. If, on the other hand, opportunity offering, sectarian test and creedific standard be applied then indeed are we drifting from the American idea, which gives-aye, guarantees-not only civil but religious liberty to every man, woman and child protected by the stars and stripes. Don't let's beg the question. Let us be careful not to befor the issue No true American cares the turn of his hand as to what faith his brother holds. he beire; honest; but I doubt very much if the honest citizens of this Nation, native or naturalized, will ever submit to an in-

The encounter followed a dance, and took place in a saloon near by the dance hall, where all had re paired for refreshments. Officer Arado interfered in a quarrel between his brother and Bacon, whereupon the latter drew a revolver and shot Arado in the head, killing him instantly. Bacon was arrested. A singular feature of the case is the fact that Arado was on the force simply because he enjoyed the life. He is said to have been

Slavs Anxious to Return to Work-

Cause of the Miners' Riots as Viewed

by President John McBride.

MANSFIELD, Pa., Jan. 31,-Twenty deputies under Chief Lowery made a raid on the Anarchist settlement at Bower Hill

this morning and arrested ten Slavs and Italians. They are regarded as desperate men and are now in jail. These were the men who wanted to hold a meeting on Monday, raise the red flag and declare for blood. Their meeting house was searched for dynamite and arms, but only two guns were found. Another raid under Deputy Haws and ten assistants was made during the night and thirty foreigners suspected of burning the Essen tipple on Saturday were captured. The men were all armed and several resisted arrest, but no one was injured. They were Russians, Poles and Italians. Quiet prevails throughout the region, but the mines are still under guard.

A large number of Slavs applied for work to-day, and this is looked upon as a guarantee that they have given up the fight and president of the United Mine-workers of America, said, to-day, that the direct cause of the Pitsburg mining riots was starvation. The miners hold the operators responsible for that condition. Being desperate, the miners destroyed property.

The Pittsburg district is only part of the competitive field comprising the mines of northern Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, western Pennsylvania and part of West Virginia.

A fair relative price has been paid for mining. This relative price was based on competitive grounds. Neither the selling price of coal in the market, nor the price of mining in any part of the competitive field had been reduced when the Pittsburg operators forced a reduction in the price paid the miners. The price of mining at Pittsburg finally dropped from 79 cents, the price on the competitive basis per ton, to as low as 40 cents. The depressed state of the coal trade gave the miners less than half work.

It was difficult for them to live on their earnings, with the mining price as low as 40, 50 and 60 cents and the men forced to take orders at the stores. The prices of coal were also cut. Lump coal selling at $1.10 per ton, f. o. b., dropped to from 65 to 80 cents per ton. The run of the mine is selling at 50 cents f. o. b. Nut and slack, formerly profitable, is now a dead weight.

On account of these things at Pittsburg,

West Virginia miners have been compelled to accept reduced wages. Mr. McBride says the Ohio mines are practically closed and that the Ohio miners must also accept wages below the scale to meet Pittsburg rates, or do without work. He closed by rapping the knuckles of the men who brought the non-English speaking miners here because they were supposed to be more tractable than the native born or

English speaking workmen, and are now

DANBURY, Conn., Jan. 31.-The back-

There are many desertions from the ranks of the unions, and to-night most of them had meetings and agreed that those who wished to return to work in the independshops opened to-day as union shops, and another will follow to-morrow. The twelve others opened independently Monday, and to-day had many of the old employes back.

Do Not Cross the Legs.

Medical Age. Women who sit with their legs crossed to sew, or read, or to hold the baby are not aware that they are inviting serious physical ailments, but it is true nevertheless. When a man crosses his legs he places the ankie of one limb across the knee of the other and rests it lightly there. A woman, more modest and restricted in her movements, rests the entire weight of one limb on the upper part of the other, and this pressure upon the sensitive nerves and cords, if indulged in for continued lengths of time, as is often done by ladies who sew or embroider, will produce discuse.
